

Sumerian Daily Life

A picture is worth a thousand words...

Using the information provided in the readings "How Families Lived" and "Clothes" draw pictures in the boxes that reflect each caption. For each picture, label at least three things that come from the reading. Your goal is to show as much information as possible.

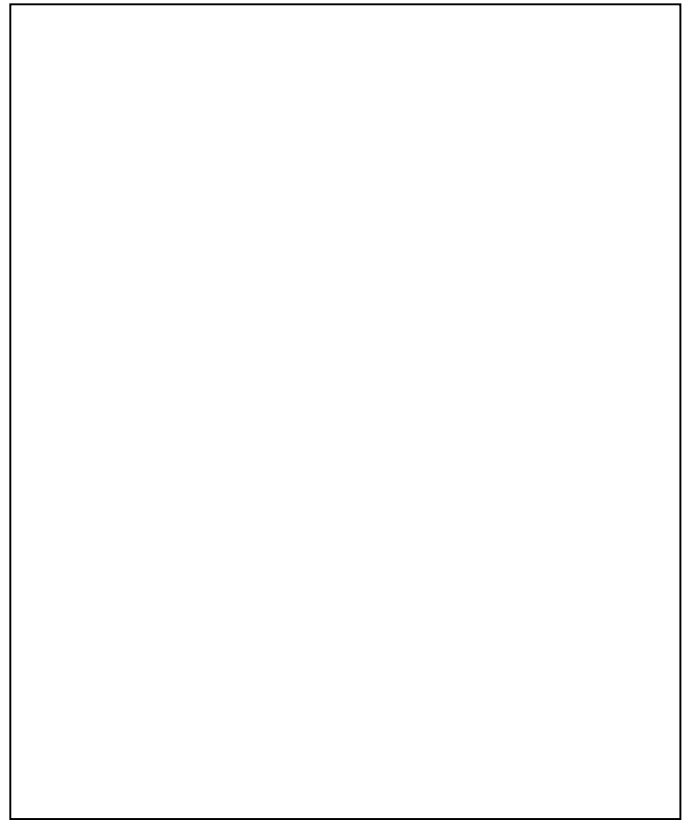

You should try to combine information from multiple sections to show your understanding. For example, when drawing a man, what is his occupation? How educated is he? Is he enslaved or free? How will you show these things in your image?
